(11WG) AFI 33-322, 01 Dec 1998, is supplemented as follows:

This supplement implements AFI 33-322, 1 December 1998, Records Management Program. It provides guidance on how to retire, transfer, and access retired records. It also outlines principles and guidelines for electronic record management until a formal record management application (RMA) software application has been fielded. It is applicable to all assigned and attached organizations who require records management support.

SUMMARY OF REVISIONS

This document is substantially revised and must be completely reviewed.

This is a total rewrite of Air Force Instruction (AFI) 37-122. It transfers the responsibility for the Air Force Records Management Program from the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force (SAF/AAI) to Headquarters United States Air Force (HQ USAF/SC) and HQ AFCIC/ITC; redefines roles and responsibilities at all levels; deletes specific process statements to be incorporated in other instructions; adds requirements applicable to contractor records; adds responsibility for record custody to the chief of an office of record; and clarifies support agreement requirement for tenant units. The bar (|) preceding the title indicates a major revision from the previous edition.

1. General. Records play a vital role in managing and operating Air Force activities. They serve as the memory of the organization, a record of past events, and the basis for future actions.

1.1. Commanders and staff agency chiefs must implement records management programs in order to comply with this instruction and protect the rights of the government and persons directly affected by Air Force actions. This provision also applies to commanders of those combatant commands supported by Air Force records management.

1.2. This instruction applies to contractors performing records management support and to the records of any contractor operating under an Air Force contract. Performance work statements must include record keeping requirements (see paragraph 10.).

1.3. Air Force units at all levels must manage records systematically to make sure they are complete, accurate, trustworthy, and easily accessible. Air Force units at all levels must document their organization, function, and activities and preserve their records by implementing effective life-cycle management procedures within their areas of responsibility.

2. Definition of Records. "All books, papers, maps, photographs, machine-readable materials, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by any agency of the US Government under federal laws, or in connection with the transaction of public business, and preserved or appropriate for preservation by an agency, or its legitimate successor, as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the government or because of the informational value of data in them. Library and museum material made or acquired and preserved solely for reference or exhibition purposes, extra copies of documents preserved only for convenience of reference, and stocks of publications and processed documents are not included." (Title 44 U.S.C., Section 3301).

3. The Air Force Program Guidance.

3. (11WG) The Air Force Program Guidance.

3.1. Within the Air Force, the Director, Communications and Information (HQ USAF/SC) oversees the Air Force records management program. The HQ USAF/SC appoints the Air Force Records

Officer within HQ AFCIC/IT to administer the program, represent the Secretary of the Air Force on records management issues, and oversee the legal requirements of records disposal.

3.2. Air Force personnel and civilian employees:

3.2.1. Must not destroy, dispose of, or mutilate records without proper authority. Unauthorized destruction, disposition or mutilation of records is a violation of Title 18, U.S.C., Section 2071 and includes the possibility of a fine and confinement up to 3 years. Failure to obey the prohibitions in this paragraph is a violation of Article 92, Uniform Code of Military Justice. Failure of civilian employees to follow the prohibitions in this paragraph may result in administrative disciplinary action under applicable civilian personnel instructions without regard to otherwise applicable criminal or civil sanctions.

3.2.2. Must inform officials of any actual or potential unlawful removal, change, or destruction of Air Force records.

3.2.3. Must distinguish Federal records from nonrecord materials and maintain personal papers separately.

3.3. The Air Force establishes an organized network of records managers at major commands (MAJCOM) and bases for managing the program and ensuring compliance at all levels.

3.4. (11WG) 11 CS/SCSLD is the command records manager (CRM).

3.5. CRM responsibility applies to Air Force direct reporting units (DRU) and Air National Guard. The 11th Wing supports offices of record in the Secretariat, HQ USAF, and at Bolling AFB DC.

10.1. Contractors performing congressionally mandated program functions must create and maintain records to document these programs. The contract must include requirements for the delivery of all pertinent documentation of contractor program execution.

10.2. Many other types of contracts involve creating background data that may have value to the government. Support Agreements (AFI 25-201, Support Agreements Procedures). Base records managers provide support to any and all organizations authorized to receive administrative or logistical support. To validate and defend availability of resources, a support agreement is an essential tool. Local support agreements for records management services can be between the host and Air Force tenants of other MAJCOMs, other services, or DoD components, and non-DoD agencies. Normally it is the responsibility of the receiving activity to assess and generate requests for support. If a support agreement is necessary, the RM must work with the base communications unit Plans Flight to modify an existing agreement or create a new one. Follow the procedures in AFI 25-201.

11. (11WG) Support Agreements (AFI 25-201, Support Agreements Procedures). 11 CS/SCX is the office of record for these support agreements.
